Your Income Tax

Federal income tax payments become delinquent on March 15th. For the convenience of our reader we will present under this heading a series of authenticated articles which may help answer some of the questions likely to arise. W. D. Malloy, deputy collector of internal revenue for this district, opened offices February 1 at Room 5, in the basement of the postoffice and announced he will be at the office on Monday and Tuesday and his office hours are 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. After February 13, his schedule in this county includes Placerville February 13, 14 and 15; at Camino postoffice February 22; and at Placerville again March 1st, 3rd, 4th, 10th and 11th.

Capital Gains and Losses
The term "capital assets" is defined as the property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with his trade or business), but does not include stock in trade of the taxpayer or property of a kind which would properly be included if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business, or property, used in the trade or business, of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation.

Capital gains and losses are classified as "short-term" (applicable to capital assets held for 18 months or less) and "long-term" (applicable to capital assets held for more than 18 months). Such gains and losses are taken into consideration in the percentages shown on the return, based upon the period of time during which the assets were held.

Short-term capital assets are allowable only to the extent of short-term capital gains. However, any net short-term capital loss (not in excess of the net income for the taxable year) may be carried over to the succeeding year and applied against the short-term capital gains not already offset by short-term capital losses in such year. The carry-over is restricted to one year.

In the case of a net long-term capital gain or loss, an alternative tax is imposed with respect to a gain if such tax is less than the normal tax and surtax on net income, and in the event of a loss, such alternative tax is imposed if greater than the normal tax and surtax on net income. Where a taxpayer derives a net long-term capital gain and computes his tax under section 117 (c) (1), relating to alternative taxes, the base for determining the 15-per cent limitation on the charitable contribution deduction provided by section 23 (c) and the earned income credit provided by section 25 (a) (3) is "net income."

When a taxpayer sustains a net long-term capital loss and computes his tax under section 117 (c) (2), the base for determining the charitable contribution deduction is "ordinary net income," that is "net income" plus the amount of the net long-term capital loss, and the base for determining the earned income credit is "ordinary net income" as adjusted for the charitable contribution deductions.

ARMY PROBES DEATH OF 8 IN BOMBER

Plane Carried Secret Equipment; Sabotage Is Hinted Unofficially

LOVELOCK, Nev. (UP)—The shattered, nameless bodies of eight army fliers, killed when their flying fortress smashed into a desert mountain and exploded, were brought in to Lovelock today as the army prepared a formal inquiry into the mysterious accident.

Army officials refused to speculate on what caused the big bomber, loaded with secret experimental equipment, to come screaming out of the clouds in a power dive and flatten itself on the side of Ragged Top Mountain. There was an unofficial suggestion of sabotage.

The charred, broken bodies of the eight victims, strapped in their unused parachutes, were still hot from the searing explosion of 2600 gallons of gasoline and undetected bombs burned their hands as the bodies were loaded into CCC trucks and brought here.

The plane, guarded by 12 CCC men, lay in a molten heap, with rivulets of metal on its sides attesting the blasting heat of the explosion. The impact of the crash would have generated enough heat to fire the gasoline tanks even if the ignition had been cut, observers said.

Army officers stripped off some of the plane's most secret instruments—which included the famed Norden bombsight—although everything on the bomber was burned and melted almost beyond recognition.

Today's army inquiry was to be conducted by Lt. Col. B. J. Tooker, Capt. R. T. Black and Lt. J. J. Kennedy, assisted by Acting Sheriff Jack Closson. Coroner Clarence Young was to hold his inquest at the same time.

Identification of the bodies appeared almost a hopeless task, since

Redecorating Of Theater Ends

Management Invites Public To Suggest Preferences For Future Pictures

Complete redecoration of the Empire Theater, which had been under way for several weeks, was concluded this week and includes removal of the useless orchestra pit and the installation of steps extending the width of the proscenium arch up to the stage.

New lights were installed several weeks ago in the lobby, and during the coming weeks new fixtures are to be installed in the auditorium, according to Manager Kay Nayfa.

"We have a modern theater and patrons will note that our ushers are being uniformed, too," Manager Nayfa said.

"We want to bring to the people of El Dorado County the kind of pictures they want to see and to this end we are going to install a ballot box in the lobby, where patrons may leave a note expressing their wishes in this regard."

"I am not personally promising that if you ask for a certain picture I can present it, but I will say that the wishes of our patrons will be our guide, and we will do all possible to get the type of pictures and the particular pictures which the public wants."

The Empire Theater employs a staff of eight, including Manager Nayfa.

Athletics Start For Spring Training

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Headed by President-Manager Connie Mack, a party of 11 Philadelphia Athletics were the first major league club en route to spring training quarters today. A train was taking them to Carlsbad, Calif.

A committee of county teachers meeting to consider the course of study in arithmetic in county schools, with regard to grade standards, has completed a tentative schedule through the third grade. Most recent meeting of the committee, of which Harry Wolf is chairman, was held Wednesday night at the school administration offices, in the courthouse.

WHAT COMES DOWN must go up if it wants to come down again, and that explains the rope ski tow of the Placerville Ski Club, located at the foot of the club's hill in the Lover's Leap Ski Area. The men strung out in a line in the center of the picture are holding onto the rope tow to ascend the hill. "If the hill doesn't show up very well," explains Ski Club President Bert Parsons, who took the picture, "it's my fault for tilting the camera." The photo shows some of the winter sports activity in the Lover's Leap Ski Area last Sunday.

11 ADMITTED AS CITIZENS

Federal Examiner Puts 16 Through Tests In Superior Court Hearing

Eleven of a class of sixteen, presented in Superior Court on Thursday for final examination and naturalization as citizens received their final papers.

The five others were denied naturalization for various reasons and will, perhaps, perfect their applications and qualifications at a subsequent hearing.

The examination was conducted by C. A. Antonelli, a federal examiner, of San Francisco, before Judge George H. Thompson.

In making public the names of those whose applications for citizenship won approval, County Clerk Arthur J. Koletzke noted with some satisfaction that all of those who had been preparing for citizenship in classes conducted by him passed the examination.

The new citizens are Alceste P. Astri, Vincenzo Poncetta, Gustav Alexander Soda, Carlotta Emma Noemi Benedetti, Martha Elisa Fields, Joseph William Rice, Emma Pilet, Frank C. Dames, Karl Erik Holger Hellman, Gerda M. Barton and Hilman Meyer Winje.

Examiner Antonelli conducted the final test orally and fired a rapid succession of questions at the candidates in turn. Spectators at the hearing said that although they paid close attention, it did not appear to them that the examiner asked any one question of more than one of the candidates.

This demonstrated the broad understanding of Americanism and of the responsibilities of citizenship won by the eleven who were successful in their naturalization applications.

County Clerk Koletzke reported that, within a few weeks, he will institute a new class for those preparing for naturalization examinations.

"Benny The Boss" Rubbed Out In Gang Feud

NEW YORK, (UP)—Benjamin ("Benny The Boss") Tannenbaum, a lieutenant of Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, millionaire racketeer, was shot to death last night in a Bronx apartment while he watched the four-months old daughter of a friend, a fingerprint check showed today.

Police had investigated the slaying in a routine fashion, thinking the then unidentified man had been the victim of robbers. Fingerprints revealed him to be a high figure in the country's underworld.

Tannenbaum was watching the four-months old daughter of Max Heitner, while Heitner and his wife were out for the evening.

CONCILIATOR ASSIGNED IN STRIKES THREAT OF MINES

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—Attempting to avert a strike at California's biggest gold mines in Nevada county, the U. S. conciliation service today assigned Omar Hoskins, federal conciliator, to the dispute between the Nevada county mine workers protective league and the owners of ten active mines.

A union mass meeting was scheduled for Sunday in Grass Valley to consider the employers' new proposal.

Sheriff George M. Smith and Deputy Euell Y. Gray were in the Coloma vicinity Friday morning on official duties.

TRAIL IS MARKED FOR SKI FANS

Convenience Facilities Installed At Hill Of Placerville Ski Club

Placerville Ski Club members are expecting one of the most successful weekends of the season at the club's ski hill in the Lover's Leap Ski Area, near Twin Bridges.

In preparation for the entertainment of the large number of winter sports fans who are expected to be in the area Sunday, new markers were installed this week on the ski trail leading from the top of the ski hill across Lover's Leap and down to Selts Camp.

The trail was marked under the supervision of Ranger M. D. Morris, of Pacific District of the Forest Service, who was assisted by Sid Hall, Floyd Poole and Rowland Morris.

Convenience facilities have recently been installed in the ski area, according to Ski Club President Bert Parsons, and this is a feature which will be appreciated by all winter sports fans who visit the area.

PLACERVILLE BEARS INVADE SACRAMENTO TONIGHT; PLAY SUTTER CREEK A. C. AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL GYMNASIUM TUESDAY

By MANCE VAUGHT

Whether you're a basketball fan or not, you must admire the record being hung up by the Golden Bears of Placerville. This team, sponsored by Fred Boggs and Zelwick & Blair, is really going to town.

So far they are the only team of the El Dorado County League to travel through neighboring counties seeking competition and played return games at home with outside teams. In these games they have won seven out of eleven contests, being topped only by Auburn P. S. E. A. and Sutter Creek. The Golden Bears are hitting a thousand per cent in the county league.

Tonight they travel to Sacramento to take on the Capital City Athletic Club at the junior high school auditorium at William Land Park, located on Sierra Way.

Tuesday they will meet Sutter Creek here in the grammar school auditorium for a return match. On February 15 they journey to Auburn for another meeting with the P. S. E. A. Giants.

Here's the Golden Bears' latest lineup, the way they will go into the game Friday night in Sacramento: Jimmie Winsted, guard; Don Ammons, forward; Roy Del Carlo, forward; Robert Boggs, guard; Drew Rossi, center; Glen Cribb, forward, and Fred Boggs, coach.

"Quads" Born To Dakota Farm Family

FARGO, N. D., (UP)—Nick Brown, Leonard, N. D., farmer, whose wife gave birth to quadruplets, admitted today that he was excited "but who wouldn't be—four babies is four babies."

Three boys and a girl were born to Brown's 36-year-old wife, in St. John's Hospital yesterday. Quadruplets occur once in 750,000 births.

Dr. J. F. Hanna, who attended the delivery, said today the mother and four children were "very well."

The quads were delivered in five minutes. The girl was born first and weighed four pounds, 10 ounces. The first boy weighed the same. Then came a four-pound, nine-ounce boy and, finally, another boy weighing three pounds, 12 ounces. They were placed in incubators under care of three nurses in a special nursery.

NEW CRITIC OF LEASE-LENDING

Aviation Authority Says It Is More Important To Keep Planes For Defense

WASHINGTON (UP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn, D. Tex., said today that house democratic leaders would fight against any further changes in the British-aid bill, except for amendments approved by the foreign affairs committee. This indicated that the leadership would oppose the proposal of Rep. James W. Wadsworth, R. N. Y., to place a $7,000,000,000 ceiling on the British aid program.

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Al Williams, noted speed flier and aviation writer, estimated today that Germany's plane production may be running as high as 4,500 to 5,000 a month and expressed doubt that England could win the war.

Testifying before the senate foreign relations committee in opposition to the British aid bill, Williams criticized the administration for releasing to foreign powers military aircraft which he said were "vital" to U. S. defense.

He said he believed it more important for America to keep its aircraft on hand for defense rather than "experiment" with them in the European war in the hope of replacing them later with newer and better aircraft.

German plane production was estimated at 600 a month early in 1938, he said. Now, Williams said, it is generally estimated at 3,000 to 3,500 a month, and this figure is "ultra conservative and it may be running as high as 4,500 to 5,000 a month."

U. S. production now is 950 a month, he said, adding that "it is time to tell the public that these 950 are not all combat planes."

U. S. plane production capacity, he added, is "unlimited when we decide what types of planes we want and what we intend to do with the product."

"America today is woefully deficient in air power," he told the committee. "In fact American air power is a myth. The neglect to provide that vital arm for America's national defense system is nothing short of criminal."

GEORGE JOHNS INQUEST MAY BE CALLED EARLY NEXT WEEK

Coroner A. J. Orelli said Friday that a formal inquest in the matter of the death of George Johns, who committed suicide in the basement of his home at Mosquito on Wednesday, may be called early next week.

That the investigation will reveal nothing further than told in the notes Johns left before shooting himself in the head with a .38 calibre Colt pistol was indicated when officials reported they had made an investigation of the case and found "nothing new."

Mr. Johns mentioned failing health as a reason for taking his life and officials learned that, within recent months, he had visited an eye doctor. It was suggested that, possibly, he also had at that time consulted a physician who could have given him a report on his state of health over which he had, possibly, brooded becoming despondent.

Fred Veerkamp was in town from Garden Valley on Friday.

BENGAZI IS TAKEN BY BRITISH

Italians Report Battle Raging In Eritrea; U. S. Rome Embassy Guarded

By UNITED PRESS
The British army of the Nile, supported by the Royal Air Force and the Royal Navy, captured Benghazi, capital of Cyrenaica today, stretching to 500 miles across the Egyptian and Libyan deserts what began as a simple British raid out of Marsa Matruh on Dec. 9.

British believed the fall of Benghazi must deal a tremendous blow to Italian morale. There was rejoicing in London and Cairo that Italy's hopes to drive to Alexandria and the Suez Canal had been definitely smashed.

The Italian high command in Rome virtually conceded the loss of Benghazi by asserting in its communiqué that "a violent battle was raging south of Benghazi between Italian and British troops."

The Italians admitted also that fighting raged at Keren, only 35 miles from the Eritrean capital of Asmara. They said that Italians on the southern Ethiopian front had repulsed British attacks and that in Italo-Greek fighting in Albania "there was nothing worthy of mention."

In Rome hundreds of troops, including crack units of the be-plumed Bersaglieri, carrying full war kits and served from mobile field kitchens, were called out to reinforce the normal Carabinieri guard at the United States embassy and consulate general as university students staged patriotic parades in the streets protesting the British aid bill now being debated by congress in Washington.

Last night British planes heavily attacked the invasion ports of Fe-camp, Dieppe, Boulogne, Calais and Dunkirk on the French coast of the English Channel. Docks and port works were the chief targets. Many large fires were reported.

Gustavson To Try Comeback

'39 State Cross-Country Champion Hopes To Cop National Championship

George Gustavson, the Placerville skiing ace who won the national cross country championship in 1939, will compete in the Auburn Ski Club's 11th Annual Invitational Ski Tournament February 16, and will go to Salt Lake City a week later to enter the 1941 national cross country skiers in the Auburn meet on the Gustavson this week changed his registration to the Auburn Ski club with the consent of the directors of the Placerville Ski Club.

Sports lovers of both Placerville and Auburn expect George to regain the national crown which he lost last year when he broke a ski pole soon after the start of the race.

Gustavson has been training almost daily this year at the Auburn club grounds. The showing he makes against California's best cross country skiers in the 9thurn meet on the 16th will be a strong indication of his chances of winning the 1941 national title.

Arnold Weber of Placerville, who has long been a licensed judge of ski jumping in the National Ski Association, is being invited to act as judge for the jumping events at the Auburn Ski Club tournament.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

PASSPORT TO PERIL

Jim Talbot, wandering adventurer, finds himself in Miami Florida. While strolling through a park at night, he is suddenly assaulted by two ruffians. He routs them and, completely mystified as to the purpose of the attack, goes on to a barroom. There, he is startled to run into a young man, James Long, so exactly his double that they could be twins. He wonders if his assailants could have mistaken him for Long. When he tells Long about the attack, and asks him if he would, by any chance, like to hire a double. Long looks worried and says, "Let's go where we can talk."

CHAPTER II

"I HAVE a room in the hotel next door," Long told Jim as they left the barroom. "It's—er—" He paused in some confusion, glancing at Jim's shirt and dungarees. "I know what you mean. This was my valet's afternoon off."

"We'll go up the back stairs," Long suggested.

He led the way down a narrow walk between the barroom and hotel, and through a side entrance to the hotel. They mounted carpeted stairs to the second floor. As they entered Long's room, Jim's gaze fell on two packed bags that stood near the door. "I'm all packed to sail for Costanagua," Long explained. "At dawn—on the Sea Gull."

"Costanagua?" said Jim, sinking into a chair.

He had never been to that little Central American republic, but he'd like to go there some day. "Yes," said Long, nervously pacing up and down, running his fingers through his hair. "And for some mysterious reason, some one seems intent on keeping me from sailing."

Jim raised his eyebrows. "I see. You think that those two guys who attacked me in the park were after you—were trying, perhaps, to kidnap you?"

"I am afraid so," Long replied, a tremor in his voice. "Or worse!"

"Haven't you any idea why?" Jim questioned.

"No—but I'll explain the whole set-up to you."

LONG sat down. "Do you know the tropics at all? Did you ever

The Cougars proved to be "too many" for the home lads Friday night, and when it was all over, the El Dorados had taken three games by decisive scores. In the first game, the visitors were limited to two points against nearly thirty for the locals. The A and B teams also got through without much trouble, although there were some exciting moments in the unlimited clash.

The Drill Team again stole the show with a splendid exhibition of precision marching, and the whole town seems to be wondering what they're cooking up for this week. Anyway, we can safely state that it will be good, plenty good.

There were more teachers than we thought the old school had at the games the other night, and we could identify some of those "educated" bassos and sopranos in the midst of every yell. Now if the Student Body would "go thou and do likewise," we might yell the roof off the gym!

Jackson comes to town Friday night, and some good basketball is in prospect. They gave us three good battles a few weeks ago, and the practice they've had since then shouldn't have made them any worse.

If you're in the mood to sow some night it got under my skin, don't suppose you'll understand

JIM saw that Long's eyes were now shining. He felt curiously drawn to this young man who so closely resembled him, and who was so eagerly looking forward to his first adventure.

"I understand all right," he said softly. "I've lived on adventure most of my life—can't resist the call of it."

Long grinned. "I could tell you've been around. But me—I've been stagnating all my life. Well, I just decided I'd quit stagnating. I decided to go— that it wouldn't be healthy for me in Costanagua. I thought it was some sort of joke at first—thought some of my friends were trying to kid me. But now I see I'm spread his hands helplessly.

"Those birds in the park weren't kidding," Jim remarked dryly. "When did you get the first phone call?"

"Right after I cabled Webb that I was coming. That was about three weeks ago. I've been getting anonymous phone calls ever since, and they've been getting more and more threatening. During the past week I've been sure I was being shadowed. It's made me pretty nervous. But I went right ahead with my plans. Then, last night, the same man who made all the other calls phoned me again and deliberately threatened me with death if I didn't cancel my reservation on the Sea Gull and stay here."

"Hmm," said Jim, lighting a cigarette. "Murder is a pretty strong argument!"

Long jumped up and paced the floor again. "I can't understand it! It's fantastic!"

"What," Jim asked, "are you going to do about it?"

Long turned and looked at him squarely. "I'm going to call their bluff! I'm going to board the Sea Gull when she sails!"

"Where do I fit in?" asked Jim. "I don't know," Long regarded him dubiously. "I had a crazy idea that maybe

Jim grinned crookedly. "Don't be afraid to offend me. I'm open to any proposition."

"I thought you might change clothes with me and," Long hesitated, clearing his throat.

"Lead them on a wild-goose chase?" Jim ended for him. "Why not? Nothing I'd like better than another crack at that pair!"

Long's face lit up. "Will you? Just to give me a chance to get aboard tonight unobserved? I'll pay you well!"

Jim stood up and began unbuttoning his shirt. "You've hired yourself a double!"

TEN minutes later the two men had switched clothes, and stood gazing at their images in the mirror.

Jim chuckled. "I feel like the twins Mark Twain wrote about. Darned if I know for sure which of us is which!"

"Wonderful!" Long exclaimed. "Then anxiously 'You'll be careful, won't you? I mean, stay on lighted streets out of danger. If you'll just decoy them for the next hour that will give me plenty of time to get out of here and get aboard!"

"I'm always careful," Jim assured him blithely.

Long was nervously taking bills from a well-stuffed wallet. "How much?"

"Anything—or nothing. I'm not particular. I'm enjoying myself."

"It's worth more than I can pay you," Long said earnestly. "Here! And if that's not enough."

Jim took the proffered bills and wadded them into his pocket without counting them.

He put out his hand. "Good luck! And maybe I'll be seeing you in Costanagua one of these days. You never can tell!"

They gripped hands hard. Then Jim went out the door.

The Christian Attitude Toward Possessions

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

2-9

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 9 is Luke 16, the Golden Text being: Luke 16:13, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon.")

MANY PEOPLE in the world think that money is more important than anything else. They scheme to get it, and too often are not too particular how they accomplish their ends. They cheat those for whom they are working; and even members of their own families, to get a few more dollars.

No one who ever lived on earth cared less for money than our Lord Jesus Christ. He advised the rich young man to sell all that he had and give it to the poor, and to follow in His footsteps, going about from place to place preaching, teaching and healing, depending on the gratitude and hospitality of the people to whom he preached for his sustenance.

His emphasis is all on honesty, truthfulness, unselfishness, loyalty and love. In the lesson today, Jesus first tells a parable of a man who was employed as steward by a rich man, who, apparently, went away leaving this steward in charge of his business.

When he returned he heard that the man had wasted his goods—been careless of his trust. He called the man to him and told him to give an account of his stewardship, as he would no longer be in his employ.

The steward did not know what to do. Having lived an easy life with this man, he felt he could not do rough work for his living, and he was ashamed to beg. So he called the men who were in the debt of his former master, and asked the first one how much he owed the man. "An hundred measures of oil," the man answered. And the ex-steward said, "Take thy bill and sit down quickly, and write fifty." He did the same with all the other debtors, cutting their bills in half, thus making them his friends so that they would receive him in their homes.

Jesus said: "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much; and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much."

Cannot Serve Two Masters
"No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one and love the other; or else he will hold to one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

Money is important in the modern world, for we pay our way with it, buy what we need, and provide for our families with it. But it is only a medium of exchange. It never is or can be as important as to do what God wants us to. If we are generous, open-hearted, charitable, with our money it can do us no harm. We can be God's children and use our money for good. But if we begin to hoard it, to scheme to get it, and to spend it only for our own selfish ends, it will only constitute a threat to our present and future happiness, in this world and hereafter.

The Pharisees, who loved money, heard Jesus tell this parable and they sneered at His words. Jesus, knowing what was in their hearts, told them that "that which is highly esteemed among men is abomination in the sight of God," and proceeded to tell them of some abuses in the customs of the times that they winked at, especially the divorce laws.

Jesus then told them the story of the "certain rich man" who "was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day."

And there was also a certain beggar named Lazarus, who, in his rags, and with his body full of sores, was laid at the rich man's door, hoping to eat the crumbs that fell from his table to sustain life. The dogs were his only friends.

Both Men Live

It came to pass, said Jesus, that both died. Lazarus was taken to "Abraham's bosom," in heaven; but the rich man found himself in Hades where he was tortured with flames and thirst. Seeing the poor man happy, he asked Abraham if Lazarus could not be sent down to him with a few drops of cool water to wet his scorched tongue. Abraham explained that nothing could be done. The rich man had had his good things while he was still on earth; but Lazarus had had nothing but suffering while alive, so now he had his comforts in the after life.

Then the rich man, called "Dives," which means rich, asked if Lazarus could not be sent to earth to tell the rich man's brothers of what was in store for them when they died if they continued to live lives of selfish ease on earth. He said they might not believe the prophets among them, but if a man returned from the dead, and told them, they might believe. Abraham, however, said it could not be done. If they would not listen to God's prophets who were with them on earth, they would not listen to one returned from the dead.

This ends our lesson for today. Our Golden Text is "Ye cannot serve God and mammon," so now, today, we should start to dedicate ourselves anew to the service of God, putting money and other things of this world in their proper places.

Following passage from John 4: 24: "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "The belief that Spirit is finite as well as infinite has darkened all history. In Christian Science, Spirit as a proper noun, is the name of the Supreme Being. It means quantity and quality, and applies exclusively to God. The modifying derivatives of the word spirit refer only to quality, not to God. Man is spiritual. He is not God, Spirit" (p. 93).

Today's Sport Parade

By Henry McEmore
United Press Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, (UP)—The old jockey read aloud from the racing form.

"He will ride the favorite up there—find the track wide, the turns well banked, and clear sailing along the rail."

This fine tribute to Earl Dew, couched as it should be in the language of the turf, appeared over the signatures of Eddie Arcaro, Sonny Workman, Carol Bierman, Johnny Gilbert, and a score of other riders who had thundered along the backstretch and fought down the straightaway with the Iowa boy whose tack is hung up forever.

"That's mighty nice," the old jockey said, choosing his words as carefully as he used to pilot a thoroughbred through a needle-eye opening in the stretch, "and I hope we won't have to read any more things like it this year. But I'm afraid we will. It's a miracle some boy isn't hurt or killed every day."

As if to explain this somber statement, the man who used to boot the racers home 20 years ago, recalled the days when he was answering the bugle's call astride a thoroughbred's back.

"In my time there wasn't a third of the racing there is today. There were no tracks in New England, California, or Florida. So, there were jockeys enough to go around. Most of the boys who rode were old hands at the game. They had come up the hard way and knew all the answers to the dangerous game of racing. Now, there are something like 18,000 races a year in this country. That means there must be a lot of

GIRLS ELIGIBLE TO COMPETE FOR GOOD DRIVER LEAGUE SCHOLARSHIPS

DEARBORN, Mich.—With the nation's high schools preparing for second semester activities, the Ford Good Drivers League today announced details of its 1941 good driving contests, in which $25,800 in scholarships will be awarded boys and girls of high school age throughout the country.

Started last year by Edsel Ford to promote improved driving and increase motoring safety among youth, the Good Drivers League embarks on its second season with one major innovation that is expected to more than double the membership.

Where the nation-wide 1940 good driving contests were open only to boys, the 1941 contests will be open to girls as well as boys.

This major change in the league program already has produced widespread interest, with indications that girls are fully as anxious as the boys to demonstrate their knowledge and skill at handling an automobile.

Under the new rules set by Mr. Ford as league president and his national advisory board, girls will compete in a separate division, while the boys also have a section of their own. There will be no mixed contests.

As awards for the national winners, Mr. Ford revealed that 98 Good Drivers League scholarships would be presented as follows, with identical awards for both the boy and girl divisions: First prize, $5,000 university scholarship; second prize, $2,000 university scholarship; third, fourth and fifth prizes, each $500 scholarships; and the next 44 winners, $100 each.

The contests are open to boys and girls between 14 and 18. In order to qualify for membership in the Ford Good Drivers League, all entrants must be qualified and legally authorized to drive a car in the state in which they reside.

jockeys. And jockeys aren't made overnight.

The old-timer paused, and seemed to read in his listeners' expressions that he was condemning Dew as a rider. He was quick to correct this.

"Not that Earl wasn't a good rider. He was. A fine one. But he wasn't any Johnny-come-Tuesday, either. He had been riding since he was 13. It wasn't his fault his horse went down. But there is many a boy wearing silks today who doesn't know anything about riding a horse, much less about keeping out of jams, or, more important, getting out of a jam when he gets into one. I see races all the time—all over the country—where the riding is so foolhardy and so bad that I almost have to shut my eyes. It scares you to death, that sort of riding, when you have been through the mill and know the dangers that are out there on the track, even for the best of riders."

The green hand, the unsure rider is not only a menace to himself but a menace to every other jockey in the race, the old timer pointed out.

"In the old days, we used to yell to one another when we saw a jam coming up. And we knew enough to protect ourselves and the fellow who was headed for trouble. But now a lot of kids just climb aboard a horse, shut their eyes, and pray. And there are ten thousand and one things that can happen to you when you're rolling along on a racing horse. And ten thousand and one worse things that can happen if you go off the horse. Let's just hope the Lord keeps holding on to their reins."

If the old-timer is right—and he does make sense, doesn't he?—what is the solution? Just as there are only so many concert pianists, so there are only a limited number of boys skilled in the ways of riding a thoroughbred. Still with racing expanding all the time, there is a growing demand for more and more jockeys. There can't be racing without them. There cannot—according to some—be safe and sane racing with youngsters who make the jump from exercise boy to jockey almost overnight. It's a problem for a wiser head than mine.

FORD EXPERIMENTING WITH REVOLUTIONARY FACTOR IN PLANE BUILDING

DETROIT, (UP)—Henry Ford, who pioneered a new industrial era with mass production of automobiles, is experimenting with a revolutionary riveting process which may bring war planes off an assembly line faster than ever before.

The new process is said to have been developed to a point where it may reduce by nearly 50 per cent the time and labor required in plane production and break the greatest bottleneck in bomber manufacture.

This invention and a wider adaptation of duraluminum welding, in the opinion of his associates, have brought Ford's prediction of 1,000 planes a day into the realm of possibility. With those short-cut methods and a giant bomber plant with a mile-long moving assembly line, Ford could turn all of his production techniques toward aviation.

Competent experts in the industry said that if the invention is successfully applied and meets all war department standards it will revolutionize plane manufacture in the all-metal field.

Cecil Barker was spending a day or so at San Francisco, taking advantage of leave from Forest Service work.
